Part of architecture firm Acquilano's mission is to transform spaces into dynamic, effective environments where people love to work. At a real estate firm they designed in Denver, Colorado, the aesthetic encourages collaboration and reflects the client's wish for a contemporary and sophisticated space.

ARO Plank 8 lines the walls of a large conference room, adding depth and patterning while it works its sound-softening magic. The eye-catching installation features a felt and leather pairing in dark, rich colors that play with light and shadow and add all-natural texture. The wall's moody color scheme sets a dramatic contrast to the light marble and leather finishes of the room's conference table and chairs.
